OK, thanks. I have rooms reserved for the three days. The instructor can meet me at my desk on the ninth floor.

Some of the UNIX servers we use here at Scholastic run AIX, and some run Red Hat Linux. However, the computers that we'll be using in the conference rooms for the training will be running Windows XP. I doubt that these computers would have Cygwin installed, and it might be a problem for me to install it, since I don't have admin privileges.

I can bring a Linux live CD (e.g., Knoppix, Ubuntu, et al) if that would be convenient. Please let me know if I should do so, and, if so, which distribution would be preferred.

Thank you,
Joe

Mr. Silver:

The course hours would be from 9:00 AM to 4:30 PM. The instructor will be prepared and ready to stay beyond those hours, if you feel it necessary.

Which variant of the UNIX operating system are you utilizing:

Fedora - Red Hat
Linux
Solaris
Suse
etc.
