Hi, David,
Just a reminder that yes, I would love the notes from this morning's class, June 1.
And this afternoon's class!

They are VERY, VERY, helpful.
Whole class is great!

Thanks,
Karen

Thanks again, David, for the notes.

Your chart is brilliant (to me) because it's a great "understand at a glance" tool for information I find very complicated and confusing. And didn't know anything about!

I always learn, a lot no matter what you are talking about.

Had to work all weekend but I have articles to send and comments and questions. When I finish my work I'll write, shoot, and send!

(ever see that book on grammar, called , "Eats Shoots and Leaves"?!!)

THANKS AGAIN,
Karen

David, Thanks for another two great classes! "I'm still here" were great last words before cut-off!!!

Here is my usual request for class notes from today, June 8

TECH'S TALK'S INTERNET NAVIGATIONAL SKILLS CLASS
AND
TECH TALK'S INTERNET LAB

Tomorrow, Wed. June 9, I will have to leave the lab class exactly at, or a little before, 3:00 for a work meeting.

THANKS SO MUCH..

Mute my mic anytime I am talking too much.

CLASS IS REALLY HELPING ME.

Have a good evening,
Karen

David, please give yourself credit for letting your students express themselves. It was a good thing to hear all their comments, etc. And Nancy was trying to get more class time! (by reminding Fong Leu, that we only had an hour.

I think you can see that when you made your cursor black it was easier for students to see where you were.

You can probably keep it at your preferred size.

Point is, we all can see where you are FASTER.

When we can see where you are FASTER, it just gives us more time to read the text you are pointing to.

I'll send you some shots including what the ZOOM interference looks like. Not great photography, sorry.

THANKS AGAIN!

People are learning....you set a great example by showing us your process. that also helps us learn.

Great job, Thanks again, I want notes!!!

David, thank you for the great class. It was really fun!!!
 because you allowed people to ask questions about what they needed help with,
 AND you still stuck with your program.

It must have been difficult for you.

And it was great!

I think it helped everyone understand
 their own problems,
 as well as
 the class curriculum you were teaching to.

That could not have been easy for you.

As usual, any notes you send out about today, June 10th's, classes : COMPUTER BASICS 11:00-12 noon, and COMPUTER LAB 1:30 - 3PM, would you please send to me too???

THANKS AGAIN, DAVID. This class was a hoot.

Now Project Find needs ZOOM to step up and take care of its responsibilities re:bandwidth or whatever is blocking the share screen.

Very impressive ,
 Thanks again,
 Karen

FRIDAY I MIGHT BE 1/2 hour late to class. But see you then!

These are the work in progress notes - draft from Thursday and Friday. They still are being modified, checked for accuracy, and refined for a course handout. They will be significantly improved.

I apologize for the delay; I have been working to identify and address the system problems.

And also research, test, and extend the examples and software (in response to questions asked in class May 17 - June 11).

This is my email and I'd like any class notes you can send me, for this week's classes, parts A and B:

June 21, parts A and B
June 22, parts A and B
June 23, parts A and B

And
Today's two classes, June 24, parts A and B

And I'll check any other days I am missing.

THANK YOU DAVID!!!
ALL these notes help.

AND CONGRATULATIONS TO YOU for figuring out the virtualization system
ZOOM uses so that you can teach us more -- because we don't have to lose class time waiting for ZOOM to share the screen you want to show us.

It's a big deal, so BIG THANK YOU.
Karen
